

Implementation at Edmentum

We have been partnering with schools for over 60 years. This means our implementation team understand the needs and challenges of many different schools and are able to support with implementing edtech programs successfully. When schools partner with us, we know it's vital to make the implementation process simple and easy so that our solutions can be embedded into the school's practice and have an immediate impact on attainment and growth straightaway.

Our programs are underpinned by the latest pedagogy and learning science and can be simply integrated into your school.

“

[The Edmentum team] provide unparalleled support, advice, and guidance and develop a bespoke plan with the school needs at its center. Exact Path is now fully integrated onto our Maths, Language Arts, and Reading curriculums.”

This is what your implementation journey could look like with us...

Set goals and objectives with your implementation specialist

We want to achieve your goals and objectives with you, which is why, with your personal implementation specialist from Edmentum to support you, we work with you to pinpoint every objective you want to cover with the program you've chosen.

We aim to work together in supporting your school to solve or work towards your challenges and make sure the chosen program supports you from the very start of your partnership with us.

"We could bring about professional development, training, and ongoing support for our teachers through the Edmentum expert team. Parents meeting with the support of Edmentum experts helped them in understanding their child's progress through Exact Path that provided them with a holistic view of understanding their child's growth and learning process. Thanks to the implementation team for their rigorous support in this regard!"

Develop your custom plan

Your school has its own objectives, goals, and needs, and to ensure that your program adheres to them, we will formulate a strategic plan to help you target each of them. With your input, we will produce a plan together that is suited to you, so you know exactly how you will achieve your school's mission.

Program setup and bespoke training for your staff

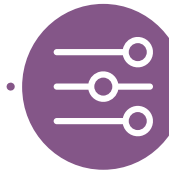

Our team will also help you set up your program in your school, including supporting with setting up all users, and then work with you to ensure you have targeted, bespoke training in place to support all your staff so they understand how to use it effectively. Our aim is to have students and teachers accessing the program straight away, and our team will work around your school's time frame to cater to this.

Training can cover:

- the needs of senior leadership teams
- the needs of staff who deal with specific student groups
- particular subjects
- support for student integration
- parental engagement.

What matters most is that your program is successfully integrated into your school.

Reviewing your progress and making adjustments

As noted down on your plan, we will contact you for regular check-ups to ensure the program is running smoothly and your needs are being met. We will also share progress, including positive progress, so you and your staff can celebrate success together, and communicate success with students.

We aim to create a long-lasting partnership with your school, so this support occurs throughout your time with Edmentum; we recognize that ongoing support is critical to your school's goals.

Support can include:

- setting up new users, particularly before new academic years
- additional training for any product updates
- reports on your usage and success sharing
- helping you with staff changes
- encouraging parental engagement
- assisting with any school changes.

Achieve your program goals

Lastly, our primary goal is to ensure that your goals are being met. We will celebrate success together along your journey with Edmentum and ensure you are comfortable with the program you have chosen with us to implement. Ultimately, we want to support you in making every teachers' and students' journey with us a success.

"The initial setup of EducationCity was facilitated so smoothly that it enabled teachers to start using the content promptly, with expert support always on hand. The constant innovative approach taken ensures that content is updated and added to, and the level of technical support is superb."
